Some Breakers Yet Ahead of the House Democrats.

So far in the extraordinary session of Congress it has been plain sailing for the well-organized Democratic majority in the House of Representatives, but, in the view of a strong and healthy minority, there are breakers ahead. By the free list bill, approved by the Democratic caucus and favorably reported by the new committee on ways and means, the rapid pace of legislative progress is expected to receive a sudden check. The majority leaders realize that the bill cannot be rushed and they are preparing to meet the vigorous assault upon it by the minority leaders in a prolonged debate. Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee, intends to submit to the House committee a report on the free list bill on the concluding day of the reciprocity debate so that it may lie over and be called up the following day. The tariff debate is expected to begin at once and it is the hope of the Democrats that the bill can be put upon its passage within two weeks. The Democrats are preparing revised wool and cotton schedules to be presented as soon as possible and later on the agricultural schedule will be tackled and then will come again the controversy over the high W. W. Parker, Druggist, cost of living. With all this and the proposed Arizona and New Mexico Statehood bill, anti-injunction legislation, reapportionment and appropriation bills, the present outlook is that the House will be kept busy until well into the summer.
